Castelmerlino born in 1976, following the development of camping in Italy. To meet the need for a folding table, solid and durable, proposed the table Larch called Ercolino. For the solidity and stability that characterize it, soon get a big hit among the growing retailers caravan and accessories and in the audience. Great appreciation also comes by campers who are Ercolino reliable in a table, Space-saving and practical in closing system.

Encouraged by these successes and concomitantly with the evolution an important network of retailers in the camp, also expanding Castelmerlino It develops more and more models Larch and further, in other materials, searching for weight reduction, greater practicality of opening systems and closing, but remaining faithful to the concept a table which, while being collapsible, It can provide strength, stability and durability, just like the first table Ercolino.

Today the offer of spaces on three floors different materials, (Larch, panel melamine and Okumè plywood) combined with legs in the metal pipe, lightweight and sturdy with several locking systems and dimensions to meet a public and a Using ever-growing ranges from camping, the house, from the terrace to the community.

Parallel to the sector of the camp and garden, Castelmerlino developed a line of articles for the bathroom that uses the same materials and concepts.

Castelmerlino is committed the use of materials promoting sustainable Sustainable management of PEFC forests.

MATERIALS

Solid Larch:

Larice is a conifer that has the property of resist water and moisture thanks to the resin contained in the wood fibers which constitutes a natural waterproofing. Leon Battista Alberti (1404-1472) wrote that also the old structures of the Venice market were blocked in Larch wood; he adds that the wood of this conifer. he has good nerve, strength tough, maximum resistance to rains ...

Sustainable material Wood is a resource renewable, widely available and coming from certified European forests and managed with responsibility. European forests grow every year of an area of 510,000 hectares. Only one third of the annual growth, amounting to 645 million cubic meters of wood, is used by industries.

The floors of our tables are made and obtained from the best selected European larch trunks specifically for our use directly in the woods and sawmill: Larix Decidua Mill.

Okumè marine plywood: marine plywood panel used also in the nautical field certified with gluing class 3, standard NF EN 314-2. Lightweight and durable.

Melamine tops: waterproof melamine floors with PVC edge have features of exceptional resistance: to scratches, to heat, to UV rays, to shocks, to burns.

Larch exposed to the weather for 21 years, from March 1991 to November 2012
